Self-Assessment

Rate each statement honestly on a scale of 1 (rarely true) to 5 (consistently true). Your score is not a verdict—it is a starting point.

I can name at least three cognitive biases that distort my decisions.	1	2	3	4	5
I have a written process for breaking my recurring fear loops.	1	2	3	4	5
I have an identity statement I revisit regularly.	1	2	3	4	5
I lead from verified truth rather than from social pressure.	1	2	3	4	5
I respond to provocation with deliberation, not reflex.	1	2	3	4	5

Identity Mapping

Identity is constructed sentence by sentence. Sit with each prompt. Write what is true—not what is impressive.

Which of the 10 Laws of the Proven Life is most under-practiced in your week?

Map a recent emotional reaction: trigger → assumption → bias → behavior → cost.

Write a one-sentence identity statement in the present tense ('I am the kind of person who…').

Action Planning

A standard that is not enacted is not yours. Convert insight into commitment. Be specific—name dates, behaviors, and witnesses.

The fear I will deliberately confront in the next 14 days:

The bias I will install a check against (and how):

The Law I will make non-negotiable this quarter:

> Verification Check
> Re-read your action commitments aloud. If even one feels performative, revise it until it feels both possible and slightly uncomfortable. That is the zone of real growth.

A Note Before You Close This Workbook

> You will not live this entire standard perfectly. Neither will I. No one does. But every day you return to alignment—every time you choose clarity over impulse, truth over comfort, discipline over drift—you strengthen your character.
